BIRTH.

On the 16th July, at Hopkirk, the wife of Captain G. ANDREWES, sister-in-law, of a son.

DEATH.

On the 11th June, at St. John's, Cowley, THOMAS DAWSON, of the Chinese Customs Service, son of R. B. DAWSON, Esq., Commissioner, Fowey, China, and a son of Major-General W. O. SWANTON, Madras Staff Corps.

DEATHS.

At Macao, at 4 p.m. on the 1st July, ANTONIO A. N. DE BON, 60, a former partner of the Hongkong Daily Press, aged 45.

On the 14th June, at Tenerife, Evening-road, Upper Castle, MARGARET ANN, beloved wife of Captain G. L. CASTLE, senior Factor.

The full significance of the intimation telegraphed by our Shanghai correspondent may not at first strike the reader. That fresh anti-foreign placards have been issued from Hunan may not be thought to be a very startling piece of intelligence. The whole of the Yangtze Valley was flooded with anti-foreign literature last summer, and it is now some time since any of these incidents to outrage and murder have appeared. If therefore a stray placard or so should be issued need it be occasion for special alarm or resentment? We think so, because the fermenters of the riots have not yet been made to understand that the Peking Government was ever in earnest in regarding such demonstrations, or that the Foreign Powers have the pluck or the energy to prevent their occurrences in the future. The mandarin CHOU HAN, who was admittedly one of the authors of the most pernicious and slanderous of the anti-foreign publications printed at Changsha and scattered broadcast through Central China, is still at large. He has been reported insane, has been nominally degraded and is supposed to be under surveillance, but a matter of fact it was with the greatest reluctance that steps were taken against him, and if the truth were known he is only suspended from office until the storm has blown over. The printers of the obscene and defamatory literature were punished, as tools always are in China, while the real criminals escape. What greater, therefore, if some patriotic editor of CHOU HAN should have appeared, and impatient of the delay in the work of scoring out the "foreign devils," should have taken up the task which that incendiary perfessor had to drop!

Sooth to say, we are not greatly surprised to hear of this new outbreak of anti-foreign feeling in Hunan. The failure of the Treaty Powers to maintain their concert and press their demands until fully satisfied would, we foresaw, and predicted last year, have for its inevitable result the eventual encouragement of the anti-foreign party in China and a confirmation of the belief which has for some years been growing up in Peking that the Foreign Powers may bark but that they cannot and dare not bite. It is annoying, no doubt, to have the foreign gunboats prowling up and down the Yangtze, but as they have a right to visit the Treaty ports their presence has ceased to be novel, or to be regarded as a threat, and care will of course be exercised that no riot should occur within their reach, at least for the present. The time will come when a foreign gunboat will have no special terror for the Chinese, when their own armaments and squadrons are sufficient to repel the enemy. Meantime Hunan waxes impudent and will not be held in check.

The fault rests with the faint-hearted Representatives of the Western Powers, who, when they demanded that Hunan should be opened up to foreign trade and intercourse as a punishment and an admittive lesson, should have insisted upon no, whatever consequences were suggested or threatened. The blood of the murdered and innocent victims of mob violence at Wusih is still unexpiated; the brutal violence offered to the French sisters at Ichang and female missionaries in other towns is yet unavenged. The paltry indemnities for the destruction of property over which the Chinese officials higgled and bargained, in no way compensate for all the alarm, trouble, and misery caused to the missionaries and others whose houses were fired and plundered and who had to fly in some cases half clothed and destitute of resources, happy in having saved their lives. It is probable that the reappearance of these anti-foreign placards is premature, and that the Chinese Authorities will take steps to put a stop to their issue. On the other hand it is manifest that they in reality sympathise with the Hunan agitators and will do nothing, unless compelled to punish the authors of this inflammatory literature. Possibly occasion has been taken of the political crisis, known in Peking as well as in Europe, to be existing both in the United Kingdom and the United States. For the rest: Russia and Germany have few missionaries to bother about, and as for France—there are no contracts still to be given?

Mr. Low advocated a voluntary liquidation. In the oligarchs' memorandum to Mr. Weston, the creation was put nearly in full, and as a fact, they might have been paid absolutely in full, with £1,000,000 in the pound over.

THE ATTITUDE OF IRELAND.
LONDON, 17th June.
Belfast is filled to overflowing with people who have come to join the "Home Guard," which is growing as a complete holiday. The ships in the harbour and the town itself were adorned with flags. Special boats and trams were run in connection with the event.

The opening of the convention, which is held in the Botanic Garden, took place to-day. The Duke of Devonshire, C.B., presided. The members of the bank had been summoned by the chairman of the bank. He told them that the depositors in Scotland amounted to over £1,000,000, and that a large proportion of them had been sent to America and elsewhere. The Archdeacon of Armagh (the Rev. Bishop Kelly, D.D.), as well as representatives of the Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, Anglican, and Methodist churches, spoke and moved motions. These were received by the people with enthusiasm, the audience rising and shouting. "We will not have Home Rule."

Lord Erne declared that there was no place in Dublin Parliament for Ulster loyalists. Another speaker said that the partitionist attitude was preposterous.

Two Italian workmen, who had been arrested at Seattle, Washington U.S.A., for the murder of their foreman, an American, have been lynched by the people.

News from Venezuela is to the effect that the insurgents, having inflicted a further defeat on the forces of President Palacio, are advancing upon Bolívar.

18th June.

President Palacio has resigned.

LONDON, 18th June.

Dr. William Maxwell Collins, who was formerly attached to the Royal Navy Guards, has been nominated for trial on a charge of having forged a "protection" note for £1,500.

Two more arrests have been made by Captain Charles Lowe.

Baron Ehrnreich made a donation of £7,000 out of his winnings on the turf, to be distributed amongst the London hospitals.

Germany intends to build a strategical railway from Carkarla, the capital of Baden, into Luxembourg.

The Duke of York (Prince George of Wales) has been sworn in, and has taken his seat in the House of Lords.

The coroner's inquest upon the victim of the collision which took place between two steamers in the Bishopsgate tank, on Tuesday last, by which three persons were killed, has been concluded. The jury in their verdict considered two signatures.

The news of the untimely death of the Earl of Anstruther has caused a painful sensation. The Earl of Dalkeith and his father, the Duke of Buccleuch, broke the unhappy tidings to the Marquis of Lothian, the Secretary for Scotland, and to the deceased's son, the Earl of Roxburgh.

LONDON, 19th June.

Many Gladstonian members of the House of Commons who were present at the Anti-Homé Rule Convention in Belfast confess that they were surprised at the depth of the sympathy displayed towards Home Rule.

LONDON, 20th June.

A Unionist meeting at St. James's Hall endorsed the sentiments expressed at the Ulster Convention, after addresses from Lord Londonderry, the Duke of Argyll, and Dr. Kenealy.

LONDON, 24th June.

A Unionist Convention was held at the Royal Infirmary, Liverpool, Manchester, and Liverpool, respectively, and was followed during the lines of those adopted at the Belfast Convention.

Speaking at a dinner given by Ulster Home Rulers in London last night, Sir Charles Gavan Duffy stated that Ulster would fight if subjected to a manifesto injustice, but nobody wanted to inflict an injustice upon Ulster.

THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE.

LONDON, 25th June.

The official opening of the Imperial Institute was deferred owing to her Majesty's nonranging for the Duke of Clarence, a uniformed opening of part of the Institute for business and social purposes took place last evening, when a conversation on Indian preparation.

LONDON, 25th June.

Mr. Gladstone accepted Mr. McDowell's proposal.

Mr. Low spoke in favour of the union of the two slates in forewarning their interest for either six or 12 months, so to telegraph the necessity of a voluntary liquidation.

The CHAIRMAN said that many people had shown a desire to strengthen and uphold the Bank, but he could not see how it could be done without some kind of liquidation; they would get a better dividend in respect of the money they had deposited, than if it was not done.

He thought that reply disposed of Mr. McDowell's proposal.

In answer to Mr. Barber, the chairman went on to say that the figures in the books must necessarily be book figures, but if everything turned out to be absolutely correct, without a loss of £100,000, the Bank would be in a position to have a dividend of £100,000.

The sale of the premises must necessarily result in depreciation, but if the bank were to resume payment in most instances the value in the account would be secured. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Gladstone supported the resolution.

Mr. JAMESON also gave his hearty concurrence to the proposition, which was then put to the meeting, and carried.

Mr. MALCOLM suggested that Mr. Robt. general manager, should be appointed joint-chairman.

The CHAIRMAN said that such a proposal should have been made before the resolution was carried.

Mr. MALCOLM.—Is it not possible to put a further resolution?

The CHAIRMAN.—No.

The CHAIRMAN having invited signature to the proposal which had been carried, so as to give strength to the application to be made to the Court, the proceedings terminated.—Times.

THE AUSTRALIAN MAIL.

The C. N. steamer Chrysopha, with Australian mails, arrived here yesterday afternoon. The appended telegrams are taken from our Australian files:

MR. GLADSTONE AND THE ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

LONDON, 19th June.
The president of the Oxford Union Club is empowered to accept a challenge from an Australian Aristocrat, Mr. Gladstone, to a duel on September next on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake, about the same time as the match between Oxford and either Harvard or Yale University.

21st June.
Sir William Clark guarantees £1,000 towards the fund for the proposed contest.

FELLOWSHIP IN BRITAIN.

LONDON, 23rd June.
Mr. David Lewis of Liverpool, who died in 1881, bequeathed a sum of £200,000 to Mr. G. J. Connelly, the Irish Home Rule member for Liverpool, to be expended in promoting a clause in the Home Rule Bill of 1886 forbidding the creation of a Roman Catholic establishment in Ireland. He pointed out, too, that the Roman Catholics elected Protestant members of the House of Commons, Lord Mayo and other heads of public bodies in Ireland. He declared it an essential condition of Home Rule that minorities should be protected.

23rd June.
A list of the signatures of the 884 Irish Nonconformist ministers opposed to Home Rule has been published in response to Mr. Gladstone's denial that they were adverse to Home Rule.

LONDON, 25th June.
Mr. Gladstone will open the Liberal campaign on the 30th instant, when he will issue an address to his constituents at Mallow.

25th June.
The British Parliament, the Congressional pouches of the City Temple, and others on behalf of Ulster against the Home Rule proposals of Mr. Gladstone, whom he censures.

25th June.
Two members of the delegation which waited on Mr. Gladstone on Thursday last, in reference to the question of legalizing bigamy as a day's labour, declare that Lord Lansbury is the only man who can be relied upon to do justice to the cause. Mr. Gladstone's action, they consider it essential that labor should be abated at the general elections.

LONDON, 25th June.
The Vorwärts, a Berlin journal, considers that the return of Mr. Gladstone to power would tend to introduce a disturbing element in Europe.

LONDON, 25th June.
Mr. Gladstone has issued a manifesto to the electors of Midlothian. He describes his Irish policy as a proposal to set both Parliament and Ireland free, enabling the former to overturn areas of taxation, and the latter to have its own affairs, and to settle its fiscal difficulties.

25th June.
Samuel Plimoll has issued a pamphlet in which he appeals to the Nonconformists to support the Marquis of Salisbury in the coming election.

LONDON, 24th June.
